A Bimetallic Triumph.

The adoption of Count Von Mirch's resolution in favor of an international bimetallic agreement in the Ipper House of the Prussian Diet by a najority of 72 to 38 is the most sigant event in relation to bimetallism has occurred in Europe since the al of the bimetallic agitation. much more significant than the ous action of the Reichstag, bein that case Chancellor Hohenumed an attitude of benevolent lity, but the resolution in the as passed despite his active and pposition. He made a speech ing against its adoption. And bitterly opposed by the Governhe Reichsbank. form of the resolution makes the still more significant, because it ies a definite expression in favor talism and not only commits ssian Government to this financy, but requires it to take the e in securing an international nce. It is a distinct triumph tallism in Germany.

he friends of bimetallism in this country will commit a great blonder if they permit themselves to be lulled into acquiescence with the plans of our gold monometallists by bright pictures of Europe's easy conversion to a bimetallic policy. Even with Germany's active sympathy and co-operation, which has not yet been secured, the task of securing international bimetallism must be slow and tedious. England's assent is necessary, and this fact renders the result uncertain and assures an indefinite prolongation of the agitation.

American friends of silver should vigorously pursue the object of securing bimetallism in this country regardless of what Europe may do .- Post-Dis-
